COUNTDOWN TO INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

A gender equality learning journey

Take meaningful corporate action with our gender equality learning journey in the lead-up to International Women's Day.

Gender equality is at a critical moment: global progress is slowing while pressure on companies to act is rapidly increasing.

The UN Global Compact invites you to join the Countdown to International Women's Day 2026 —a high-impact, interactive learning journey designed to help your company move from commitment to action on gender equality.

Starting from 24 February, gain exclusive access to four live sessions paired with practical toolkits and resources. Join business peers from around the world to explore what holistic corporate action for gender equality looks like in practice—across regions, industries, and sectors—and leave with actionable strategies to drive impact across your operations and value chains. This journey features highly relevant discussions for companies at every stage of their gender equality efforts—from closing gender pay gaps and strengthening value chains to ensuring women are not left behind in the accelerating wave of AI and digital transformation.

WHY JOIN?

- Gain insights into the latest trends shaping the business landscape and how gender equality is essential for business sustainability
- Access concrete frameworks and tools to set and make progress on ambitious corporate targets for gender equality
- Learn about actions that your company can meaningfully take this International Women's Day and beyond
- Receive certificates of completion from each session from the UN Global Compact Academy to share on social media

HOW IT WORKS

- Sign up for the journey—open to all—and invite your peers and team to join
- Once you sign up, you'll receive informative emails with timely reminders and resources recommended by experts
- You may participate in as many live sessions as you'd like, with recordings circulated afterwards to all participants
